tend to French and Gatsers.

Must Act Soon.

But, again, it well may happen that to prevent the re-enforcement of Methanen and to alst Joubert against Haller, the whole Boer main body of the renter is to-day distributed on the Orange River and on the railway between De Aar and the Modder. This is, in fact, judging by the delay of the last ten days, the most likely reason, and in this case, the Boer skirmish line, with its little corps of support, is morely playing with French and Gataere until the return of the main body either from the taking of Methanen or of Ladysmith. General Methanen on of Ladysmith, desired Methanen on the Modder, General White at Ladysmith and the garrisons at Kimberley and Mafeking are gradually eating themselves out of house and home, so in speak, and unless Buller and the French Gataere combination can do something very shortly it soon will be a question of days when White must issue out of Ladysmith and try to cut his way through the Boer lines, and when General Methanenmust try to get back to the south side of the Medder River.

To prevent the success of any such undertaking is passibly the reason why the main body of the Boer column of the center has been utilized on the east and on the west, and this last fact, if true, is probably the sole reason why the town of De Aar is not to-day besteged, and why French and Gataere were permitted to amuse themselves along the Boer front for the last few days.

The little raid made by Colonel Plicher with 20 men as far north as Boundard was also a good thing in its way. It shows what can be done by people who have occasional glimmers of Intelligence and a little snap. Or course, it amounted to nothing in a milliary way, for the simple reason that he had no force in hand capable of doing anything, and because it was not a stragetic point.

Some day perhaps, when "Colonel Bobs" reaches the scene, the world may be given

In every report of an action in South Africa there has appeared a statement of the terrible execution done by the British guns. This may be accounted for by the fact that the observer posted near the po-sition of the gun is not at all able to tell fire. These arrillery duels have been fought at ranges which some times are as long as 7.00 yards. At a much lesser range than that, the spectator is almost certain to con-cinde that every shell is bursting in the enemy's position. However, there is one thing which guns may always do.
